The people of Berlin Germany have had enough when it comes to their governments strict measures in dealing with Covid-19!

Approximately 500 thousand people took to the streets to voice their displeasure to the government about the destruction of the economy and their overreaction to the plandemic.

In this video Dan Dicks of Press For Truth speaks with Max Bachmann, a journalist who covered the protest and who understands what their issue is, how the movement began and where it's going from here!
