

A Time to Stand

Just how much are we allowing ourselves to be subjugated and manipulated?

Are we even allowing ourselves to be disallowed to draw our own conclusions and thereby take action?

As long as we're the audience and they're the "projectors", we've lost.

When we allow ourselves to be positioned in that way, we're basically following the dictates of a usurping authority and playing by their rules.

How can we ever overcome if we maintain that position?

Why is it that people cower to and cooperate with a system that is obviously inherently corrupt and working against humanity?

Do we really think we can appeal to, appease or modify these powers, while they indiscriminately stomp on every living area of our lives and refuse to answer to its supposed constituents, never mind follow its own rules?

It makes no sense at all.

Look at incident after suspicious incident from which we're deprived factual evidence – be they draconian new laws, secret negotiations, outright assassinations, Benghazi or Syria chemical weapons type events or any of the many false flag operations. Evidence is sequestered and prohibited from public viewing while we're given a parroted mainstream narrative of what transpired.

With hardly a peep from the hive mind.

We need an awakened way of thinking ingrained into our social psyche. If the 'Powers That Be' at whatever level will not answer our questions nor divulge information, we should, and will, assume complicit cover up and therefore guilt on their part.

Period.

You want proof? What is considered proof in a heavily manipulated system?

Never mind if we would ever get any, "proof" has be redefined as evidence that "they" consider compelling enough to perhaps draw some limp compromised conclusion from, if they were even compelled to let real forensics be performed and surveillance videos viewed, never mind publicized for all to see and evaluate.

The game is rigged so we simply can't play according to their rules any longer, and that goes for any way you want to apply it.

In the case of the Michael Hastings assassination for example, it doesn't matter about the so called "circumstantial" evidence of a bomb-like sound, finding the high end, virtually indestructible Mercedes blasted and its motor 100 yards away from the explosion, or that police seen tinkering under his car before the event. These facts are dutifully buried soon after the event.

Their cover up operations are just more typically obvious media snow jobs designed to appeal to a masterfully psychologically deranged audience. Go back to sleep. Nothing to see here.

What's troubling is that even the ability to draw any conclusions has been hobbled. After all, what we know doesn't meet their moving goalposts of criteria so we must be wrong.

Hence our dilemma. Inept inaction once again entrained into the body politic.

It's Proof You Want?

After all, you want real forensic proof of JFK's wounds, Oklahoma City's blown out column damage, 9/11 demolition evidence, MLK's set up "killers", or reams of factual reports on the Colorado or Sandy Hook shootings or the Boston bombing? And expect them to endorse it?

All we're given is hype, smoke and mirrors and a very thorough yet obvious cover up – clear to the awakened, but convincing to the sleeping.

Any confirmed clear cut "evidence" besides the mainstream story just isn't coming from these oracles of deceit. Trust what you see with your own eyes and know in your own heart. It's time to act on that, nothing else.

Due to technological advances we're being lied to at a degree never before witnessed by humanity.

So how are we going to take it?

Lying down?

What are you going to do once you realize it's up to you to actually make a decision by conviction, instead of being told what conclusion to draw?

Self Appointed Judge, Jury and Executioner – And We Appeal To Them?

Why are the PTBs the judge and constructed jury instead of these decisions being in the competent hands of real, living, involved and caring people with real living conscious values in mind?

And more fundamentally, why aren't we allowed access to the evidence at every level?

It's obvious. We're the subjects, those who need to be manipulated. We're lesser, subservient, servile subjects, and it's all only the illusion of fairness to keep the populace placated. Once people wake up to that in sufficient numbers we'll begin to see some conscious traction with serious momentum.

And it all begins with a few, and that's us.

I'm sick of their same old dog and pony shows and the pussy footing around by duped humanity waiting for "authorities" to validate anything. What kind of suckers are they playing us for? More importantly, what kind of suckers are we allowing ourselves to be?

That's the real question we need to ask.

And it needs to be answered individually. That's the key.

As we each stand up mentally, spiritually and physically, their power structure erodes accordingly.

Speaking Truth to Power? Baloney – Blow Past 'em

Michael Hastings dared to "speak truth to power" as they say. And sadly he paid the ultimate price for his bravery.

Unfortunately, speaking truth to power is another embedded and fundamentally cowed expression if you ask me. Truth is power. That expression places us in a puny, inferior light, just where they want us.

Unfortunately, that is the engrained situation in the mass mind. They're in power, we're not, at least within their structure. The illusion that we elect those in power is like fishing for trout in a barrel stocked with infected piranhas.

As long as we adopt that subservient, voluntarily disempowered attitude we're cooked.

Do you really think standing up in one of their courts under their conditions would reap any other result than they want? Small gains can be made at the local level perhaps, but if it has to go up the court system there's hardly a chance for real justice.

Furthermore, is it way too late anyway to even take that route considering the contrived world we're living in and the fully entrapped situation we're careening towards.

I wrote about the possible repercussions of 9/11 Truth coming out in the mainstream with 'Could 9/11 Truth Topple the American Empire'?

These freaks can contrive anything at this point in history, even using a controlled "disclosure" release to bamboozle the gullible public. The fact is, what is happening on any public scale is what is allowed to happen, or at least allowed to be viewed in the mass consciousness via their mass media "programming".

Be aware of that at the deepest level. It's all about perceived positioning. We suck up to "them" while they belittle our "doubts, theories and discrepancies" and then appeal to them under their terms, while they continue their program and vociferously spew their venomous lies.

Not exactly a fair, even or healthy exchange.

The Kennedy assassination is a good landmark.

Whatever happened to the massive outcry to that obvious cover-up? Perhaps worse, look how MLK's assassination was proven in civil court to have been carried out by the "government agencies.”

Where is that in the public consciousness? See if you can find that in a school history book or hardly anywhere in the main-stain media.

We're playing their game by subscribing to their paradigm, one that clearly works against all of humanity. It's not for the good of the people, but for more consolidated power to these manipulative controllers.

It's a mind game. Don't fall for it.

Get Uncomfortable and Disengage

People need to break out of their hopey-changeey “work through the system” paradigm and seriously be the change, as wonderfully and “radically” as they can. Then we'll see some real action.

Breaking out of these debilitating mindsets is essential if we're to get a real solid footing in reality and be able to stand against the storm of disempowering disinformation and the intimidating and bullying positioning they use against us.

That vague sounding “change” concept is useless on today's slippery, shifting playing field. We're talking personal, spiritual, mental and cultural revolution. Disengage. That means rip the wires out.

Quit any compromising, be it jobs, relationships or your use of language – radically leave your armchair comfort zone. Do some damage to the Matrix by first ripping yourself out of its grip, come what may.

Our biggest statement is the direction of our lives, what we disengage from and what we participate in.

The change is us. A full on complete new paradigm and operating unflinchingly from a liberated and empowered mindset which takes place one heart at a time.

Time to Unplug the Programming and Awaken to our True Nature

It's a sad day for a conditioned drone.

It may seem simple, easy and peaceful to acquiesce to all of this but it's literally allowing shackles to be placed on our minds and hearts. How much more programming will we continue to tolerate?

From the warrantless detention and assassination of "questionables" to unending wars on the innocent, how much will we continue to tolerate, while sleepish humanity waits for the perpetrators to confess?

It's time to fully snap out of it. It's a mindset, a subtly submissive attitude whereby we give our individual power away.

It's a nasty, fabricated disempowering world we're facing – from mind controlling television programming to entertaining engineered social norms, it's time to make the break at every level.

The good news is that their increasingly transparent tactics are driving awakened humanity to finally respond from the heart. We can draw all the conclusions we want and need by what we see and perceive. When it comes to oppressors, guilty until proven innocent is a justifiable motto.

And absence of proof to the contrary of our awakened perception is much more weighty in this contrived societal structure, rather than tolerate the hiding of facts and truths that thereby exonerate the perpetrators. This is a truly conscious stance.

I talk a lot about conscious awareness. This is not some far off sacrosanct state of being, it should permeate every area of our live and behavior.

Keep on waking up and responding. That's what they're afraid of, our very awakening to true reality and finally standing straight and tall as the magnificent beings that we are. We don't need their hierarchical structure never mind the myriad of rules these self appointed rulers impose.

They're well aware of this truth, which is why suppressing our true nature is the underlying motive for their debilitating wars on our health, freedom and mental and spiritual capabilities and potential.

Stand strong and keep everything in its true perspective. Don't yield or cower to their usurping lies, inadvertently or not.

Find your footing and rise.

The wake up to our full, true conscious stature is imperative.
