

Awakened Warriors Arise

Awakened Warriors Arise

by Zen Gardner

October 2014

Life is a struggle. How much more then is the spiritual life, the fight to remain conscious in an illusory world where deviant forces vie for control more than caring, battering your very body and soul day in and day out on top of your struggle to survive . Oh, we're going peacefully downstream in the conscious dimensions. There we learn to let go and follow the flow of the Universe and synchronicity. But in this physical, lower density world, we're fighting directly upstream.

In addition, we're living in a time of increasingly turbulent waters. Our kayaks hit all kinds of eddies and crosscurrents, never mind the rocks and rapids we have to navigate—all while idiots, enemies and doubters, prodded on by the propaganda whores, are screaming obscenities from the shore and trying to hit us with anything they can get their hands on! But alas, grasshoppers—we have powers they know not of!

The Call to Battle

We're in a warfare, any way you look at it. Only it's not a warfare of hate, but of love. It's not a warfare of physical violence, but a spiritual one of intention and a Truth directed life. The inherent cause and effect of Universal consciousness is the dissolution of the ways born of ignorance and darkness by means of the all powerful exposing and enlightening weapons of Light, Love and Truth.

The medieval matrix, no matter how fancy and hi-tech it has become, is dissolving and losing its grip. We need to actively help it on its way to oblivion, identifying its lies and blatant agenda for control and subjugation.

Don't forget, non-compliance is a decisive action, not inaction. Inaction is going with the current of the matrix.

There is no sitting still. We're all doing one or the other. Complying, or rejecting and countering their flow.

That's the choice. That's the battle.

In a Time of Imbalance the Call to Rise is Natural

Similar to the poetic beauty of martial arts, the Truth warrior uses his weapons skillfully and with great discretion. While many argue we need evil for good to exist and all that esoterica, we happen to be living in a time of great imbalance.

Do you enjoy having lords of darkness rule over you and yours, exercising more death dealing, spirit quelling control over humanity by the day?

I didn't think so. Will it collapse under its own weight? In many ways it has to. Will it do it all by itself? We have to play our parts. As long as we're here we're integral to the Great Design and clearly need to do our part.

All I know is that what I am finding out and tuning in to calls me to participate, as so many are experiencing. It's as real as the sun and water hitting a seedling and the organism responding. If it's not evident to you that our planet and civilization are under attack I do wonder how you got to this article. It couldn't be any clearer. That's why they direct the angst people are feeling, the knowing that something is wrong, towards fabricated "outside" enemies to divert attention from the real perpetrators and agenda. Hence the daily "scare" headlines, whatever they are.

Similar to how religion co-opts, steers and contains the human soul's hunger for the spiritual, the Controllers arouse, channel and misdirect humanity's sense that it is being attacked and they literally harness what they themselves have aroused, using it for their own parasitic, vampiric purposes.

Cattle prods and sheep dogs driving humanity into the slaughterhouse, mentally, spiritually and physically.

Sorry, not on our watch. It's long been time to sound the alarm and awaken as many as we possibly can. The spiritual, mental and physical arousal has way more effect than we can begin to imagine. Only your mind and low level system programming diminish its importance.

Trust your heart.

There is No "They"...They Said.

The old "tell a big enough lie" ploy is at work here. Their biggest tool is to say there is no "they". There are no dark forces according to mainstream understanding in this dumbed down world. In fact, we're told the "they" are the good guys looking out for us. It reminds me of the adage that the biggest lie Satan ever told is that he doesn't exist. Pretty clever these demons. Just laugh at them.

Yet their all usurping lie remains:

There is no negative, destructive, usurping parasitic force in the Universe other than far away safely distanced religious concepts. Most feel humanity just has other controlling humans to worry about. The powers that be are here to simply save us from each other then becomes the most believable option, and into the cattle chute they go.

After all, that's the mantra of the anti-conspiracy camp. "THEY? Are you crazy? You really think there's some 'secret cabal' running things from behind the scenes? How insane are you? If that were the case we'd be hearing all about it in the mainstream media! No way they could hide something that big!"

Same old, same old.

A very dark time right now indeed. All the recent pandemic scares, terrorism stagings, and economic and phony political rattlings attest to it. And if those fade they'll create some new ones.

Consciousness Calling

If you feel the call to participate more it's consciousness calling, any way you slice it. Take your place on the great mandala and all that, but there's a bulldozer headed for your house. Are you just gonna sit there?

No doubt you've given all of this serious thought. And I know many of you have activated and it's absolutely beautiful. I'm proud to be associated with so many amazing, loving committed people. I think we just need to be adaptive and prepared for more. The winds are picking up and the battlefield is becoming more fluid, more challenging and more demanding.

And for those on the sidelines: It's time to choose your course of action – or let it choose you.

I'm not gonna tell anyone what to do. If people don't learn to choose for themselves, consciousness is not at work and back to the old paradigms we go. But do something. Get the boat in motion or the rudder can't take effect. Find and take your calling seriously and step it up. We all have to.

Meditate, intend, pray, affirm, that's great...but act! Change your life, change the etheric world around you by your loving actions and intentions. Try new consciousness technologies while changing your lifestyle. And perhaps move to a smarter and safer location away from this obvious steamroller coming at many of you. Why just sit there?

Meanwhile write, talk, show up, contribute, speak to groups, attend gatherings of active and motivated individuals or just get honest with your loved ones. Find the opening and jump in. The rest will follow. Time is too short to do otherwise.

Contribute we must. Hopefully with our whole lives. It's all we have for all we're worth.

It's not a time to get frantic by any means, but take this as a loving alert, something I know many of you are also feeling. Our old views of just weeks and months ago are shifting and will continue to do so. It's subtle, but it's profoundly real. We have to step it up and yield to what consciousness is calling each of us to do and let go of the baggage holding us back.

A purely inspired and motivated heart will always find the way.

Again and again.

Much love,
