The Covid-19 Chronicles: Why Coronavirus and Censorship Don't Mix

"It's not the germ, it's the false announcement of the germ. It's the concoction of an apparition, a ghost, a phantom. That's how you launch a fake pandemic. That's how you sell fear. That's how you try to make people take their vaccines and keep their mouths shut." Jon Rappoport, March 26, 2016

Covid-19: Infodemic Insanity – Connecting The Dots

"How can the whole world be lying," my mother innocently asked me when I told her that Covid-19 is the largest human experiment in history and that the mainstream media isn't giving us the full picture. There was a silent pause followed by "But what about Dr. Fauci?"

The following below is dedicated to my mom and anyone who cannot fathom a Houdini magic trick carried out on a global scale, “drifters” who cannot deal with negativity and grasp onto wisps of information without context or substance, and/or those gripped and immobilized by fear. This is also dedicated to those who feel that something is off but were too busy buying toilet paper or washing their hands.

My hope is that you are looking for answers based on some inkling that there’s something nefarious happening behind the scenes that violate your civil liberties.

While the possibility of an arguably orchestrated “artificial” event is a huge (red) pill to swallow, I request you suspend your beliefs and take a journey with me through time. Never before in history has an outbreak brought a global economy to a screeching halt.

The Coronavirus Chronicles aims at helping readers navigate Covid-19, an “infodemic” of epic proportions, defined as an excessive amount of information making it difficult to suss out the truth.

On February 2, the World Health Organization dubbed the new coronavirus “a massive ‘infodemic,’” referring to “an overabundance of information—some accurate and some not—that makes it hard for people to find trustworthy sources and reliable guidance when they need it.” It’s a distinction that sets the coronavirus apart from previous viral outbreaks. While SARS, MERS, and Zika all caused global panic, fears around the coronavirus have been especially amplified by social media. It has allowed disinformation to spread and flourish at unprecedented speeds, creating an environment of heightened uncertainty that has fueled anxiety and racism in person and online.

To put things in perspective, this is not our first manufactured epidemic littered with excessive noise. Same playbook. Different “virus.”

A 2014 poll concluded that with regards to the Ebola “epidemic,” the more information people consumed, the less they knew.” (Ironically, this epidemic only became “real” for the West when two American mercenaries brought it home and survived, unlike countless blacks. Up until then, Ebola had largely been considered an “African Plague.”)

Early on, investigative journalist Spiro Skouras of Activist Post described coronavirus as a “Global 9/11.” I separately found myself calling it “a 9/11 to the 9/11.”

Because Covid-19 involves all of us “together but apart,” Covid-19 is like a fast-moving train that delivers “news” 24/7 through a variety of channels. Yet when you investigate, you learn that only six corporations own 90% of what you read, watch, and listen to. This sheer fact alone should indicate how a narrative can be co-opted, maligned, and turned inside out.

Citizen journalists and the we-are-the-news movement have shined light between truth and the mainstream media. We've caught them spreading lies about Covid-19. Examples include passing off footage of hospitals from another country as though it was from America, getting caught, and then doing it again and again. Unpunished. Incredulous.

Cocksackie virus affects Ukrainian children: Symptoms and Treatment

READ THE NEWS IN UKRAINIAN

In Ukraine, children suffer from the Koksaki virus, which is confused with stomatitis

The mainstream media (MSM) or “lame street media” presstitutes continue to spread and publicize bloated death data to scare people. The May 24 cover of The New York Times was basically an obituary for the state of New York. Fear porn aux max.

And yet these are not accurate numbers. First off, a primary reason the numbers are so sky-high is doctors and coroners are encouraged to say just about every cause of death is covid19 if corona was in present in any way.

Next, the tests need to be tested. The CDC itself, whose tests were initially contaminated with coronavirus, state that the RT PCR tests are not a diagnostic tool and result in “presumptive positives,” a.k.a an assumption.

“History-making decisions are being made due to these figures even though they’re flat out wrong,” said Montana physician Dr. Annie Bukacek back in April.

Inventor Kary Mullis himself stated these tests are not diagnostic tools. Plus, none of the tests are FDA-approved. It’s all FDA-issue under “Emergency Authorization Use (EUA). This is where this story could end. But no!

Meanwhile, NIH’s Dr. Anthony S. Fauci stated himself in the New England Journal Of Medicine that COVID-19 is no more fatal than the flu. The CDC also now estimates the case fatality rate (CFR) of COVID-19 is only 4%.4 percent.

And yet “[W]e were subjected to hundreds of stories like this one from CNBC headlined, WHO Says Coronavirus Death Rate Is 3.4% Globally,.Higher Than Previously Thought,” writes RedState.

To add insult to injury, the CDC has been combining active infection rates with those that detect recovery from Covid-19, further bloating the numbers.

“One of the agency’s data tracker websites has been lumping them together,” reported Yahoo News.

And pre-existing conditions are not even considered as a cause of death when it comes to signing off on a death certificate, something Dr. Deborah Birx concluded herself during an April 7 presser.

CORONAVIRUS · Published April 7

Birx says government is classifying all deaths of patients with coronavirus as 'COVID-19' deaths, regardless of cause

Finally, if you need a cherry on this coronavirus-flavored cake to convince you that it's full of genetically-modified information, empty calories, and toxic, bleached, sugar-coated bullshit, the Gates-funded predictive models were also flawed. What made Neil Ferguson of Imperial College reverse his claims and admit he was wrong? He ended up resigning from his government advisory group SAGE after The Telegraph revealed he broke lockdown and met with his married lover. Was he let go once his mission was determined a fait accompli?

The trajectory was wrong. So did that end the lockdowns? No! The sham show continues. We've gone from virus to violence, resulting in open fires and mayhem in the streets. (This opens another debate since disruptors, including Officer Derek Chauvin, were arguably hired to disrupt peaceful protestors and fuel race wars.)

Technofascism: Big Tech Is Big Pharma Now

Maybe just maybe the data deluge serves a bigger purpose. What is real? What is false?

"Information glut" was how now-deceased Canadian philosopher and visionary Marshall McLuhan referred to the onslaught of information he saw on the horizon with regards to the media. He also predicted a "Global Village" and fragmented niches, positing that culture could best be understood through its "tools for conversation." What happens when those tools are weaponized to suppress, muzzle, vaporize, ban, and DEMONitize? McLuhan didn't foresee that consequences.

Which brings me to the usual suspects of online social media platforms such as Facebook, Google, and Twitter that now openly take marching orders from the WHO, HHS, and CDC.

Come again?

Why?

Is it due to "high demand" for valid information for the sake of public health under the guise of an emergency? But we've just established that this is no worse than the flu. While it may be contagious and there may be several strains and it could have been engineered, Covid-19 is seemingly being USED to further impede our medical freedom. To create a divide and conquer strategy. To mask and dehumanize us. To mandate vaccines. To make alterations and malign the very definition of “autonomy.”

According to the Contact Tracing course I enrolled in to spy on snitch mentality, “autonomy” doesn’t apply when the greater good is supposedly put at risk. Covid-19 amounts to a free pass for globalists to extend their tentacles into whatever they wish. Today Big Tech is Big Pharma. Since I first reported about technofascism in August 2019, Big Tech and Big Pharma have become practically interchangeable.

Novel Coronavirus(2019-nCoV)

Situation Report - 13

Data as reported by 2 February 2020*

HIGHLIGHTS

- No new countries have reported cases of 2019-nCoV acute respiratory disease in the last 24 hours.
- WHO is receiving information about cases from a number of countries. As additional details become known, WHO requests countries to share information in a timely manner as specified in the guidance on Global Surveillance for human infection with novel coronavirus \(2019-nCoV\).
- The first death has been reported outside of China, in the Philippines. The patient was a close contact of the first patient confirmed in the Philippines.
- Due to the high demand for timely and trustworthy information about 2019-nCoV WHO technical risk communication and social media teams have been working closely to track and respond to myths and rumours.

SITUATION IN NUMBERS

total and new cases in last 24 hours

Globally
14557 confirmed (2604 new)

China
14411 confirmed (2590 new)
2110 severe (315 new)
304 deaths (45 new)

Outside of China
146 confirmed (14 new)
23 countries
1 death

WHO RISK ASSESSMENT

China	Very High
Regional Level	High
Global Level	High

The 2019-nCoV outbreak and response has been accompanied by a massive 'infodemic' - an over-abundance of information – some accurate and some not – that makes it hard for people to find trustworthy sources and reliable guidance when they need it.

Due to the high demand for timely and trustworthy information about 2019-nCoV, WHO technical risk communication and social media teams have been working closely to track and respond to myths and rumours. Through its headquarters in Geneva, its six regional offices and its partners, the Organization is working 24 hours a day to identify the most prevalent rumours that can potentially harm the public's health, such as false prevention measures or cures. These myths are then refuted with evidence-based information. WHO is making public health information and advice on the 2019-nCoV, including myth busters, available on its social media channels (including Weibo, Twitter, Facebook, Instagram, LinkedIn, Pinterest) and website.

Country risk communication and community engagement (RCCE) preparedness and response

Country risk communication and community engagement (RCCE) is a critical public health intervention in all countries. Countries should prepare to communicate rapidly, regularly and transparently with the population. All countries should prepare existing public health communication networks, media and community engagement staff to be ready for a possible case, and for the appropriate response if this happens. Countries should coordinate communications with other response organizations and include the community in response operations. WHO stands ready to coordinate with partners to support countries in their communication and community engagement response.

Enter bona fide journalists, scientists, whistleblowers, dissidents, and intellectual free-thinking refugees – true truthers who choose to sift through a bazillion proverbial puzzle pieces. Why are we smeared and targeted for trying to fit them together?

In the U.K., spreading what “they” deem misinformation may soon become a punishable crime.

Posting anti-vaccine propaganda on social media could become criminal offence, Law Commissioner says

Posting anti-vaccine propaganda on social media could become a criminal offence - even if those promoting it believe the pseudoscience, the UK's new criminal Law Commissioner has said.

In her first interview since taking up the role, Penney Lewis, revealed she is considering whether laws should be amended to "lower the threshold" of criminality for posting false information online that endangers lives.

It comes as the Health Secretary Matt Hancock said in September he was "looking very seriously" at making vaccinations compulsory for state school pupils after the UK lost its official measles-free country status due to a steady fall in MMR immunisation rates.

Currently, people are protected from prosecution if they sincerely believe the misinformation they publish under laws designed more to tackle bomb hoaxes than internet health conspiracies....

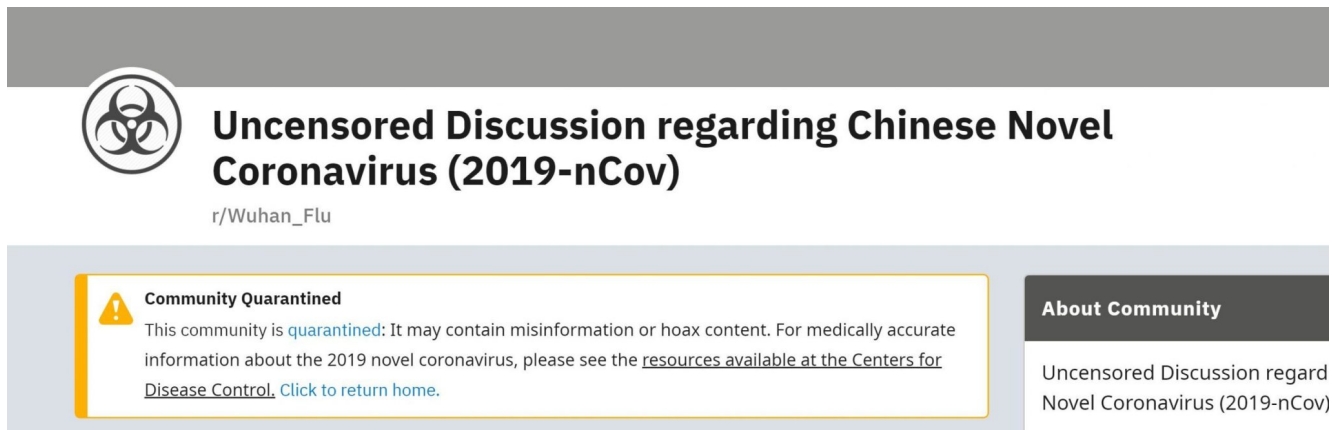

Now factor in that Google, the world's biggest search engine, no longer offers organic searches, but instead autosuggestions that tow an agenda line. Autosuggestions are an easy but powerful mind control tool. If you omit information and don't have all the details of a situation or condition, your perception is shunted, ultimately impacting beliefs and behavior.

"...Writing "freezes speech" in an unalterable form, it allows for one man's thoughts to inspire a critical reaction, to create an ongoing conversation that only deepens the perspectives of the original thought."

Arguably critical thinking is no longer welcome; hence, the 1984-esque vaporization of online articles, studies, channels, and human rage. Why are 404s at an all-time high?

Here, we see a Reddit page that ironically got “quarantined” for trying to challenge the narrative.

And the publications that do present valuable information (think ZeroHedge) get booted off. Twitter becomes harder to find depending on which search engine you use. \(I highly recommend using Qwant as your search engine.\) You often have to find them amid an onslaught of articles that discredit their views. For example, Snopes has created The Coronavirus Collection: Fact-Checking Covid-19.

I personally don't feel a sense of trust when I witness governmental bodies spreading mixed messages while we the people are the ones that suffer the repercussions. For instance, the World Health Organization flip-flopped on whether this virus was from The Coronavirus Collection, transmissible via humans in a matter of days.

Pharmakeia: Sorcery and Satan Up Ahead?

It's like we have amnesia that Big Ag and Big Pharma have been slowly assaulting our immune system, priming the body for the perfect cytokine storm. If seen through the proper lens, this realization could spur a massive awakening to the lies we've been force-fed.

Despite the litany of injuries and fatalities under the watch of the western medical establishment, Big Pharma continues to call the shots \(pun intended\), and get away with literal murder. Indemnified, they now censor and smear with brazen impunity those who not only dare to question the official Covid-19 narrative but health professionals who dare suggest natural solutions can even prevent illness. The FDA actually has an operation called "Quack Hack" whose modus operandi is projections and inverted truths.

"At this point, the tactic of the Great Hidden Hands of Controlling the Masses is to Turn Everything into a Psychological Operation. Regardless of whether there is any truth or not," a follower wrote to me.

For those of us who have studied Big Pharma and their Hegelian dialectic playbook, we've seen these manufactured outbreaks happen before, not only on Planet Earth with Zika and the anthrax letters, but also in Hollywood.

For instance, take the 2003 TV show called Dead Zone Plague which mentions masks, a lockdown, coronavirus, and HCQ. How can this be? It was 17 years ago!

And don't you scratch your head given the 2008 Hollywood flick Contagion was about a highly contagious deadly virus that spreads throughout the world, starts in a wet market in China, and spoke of "social distancing?" The tension in the film between the CDC and WHO mounts. Jude Law represents the Conspiracy Theorists.

It's called Predictive Programming. And it's been happening for decades. Psychological operations to control our minds.

"Predictive programming is a subtle form of psychological conditioning provided by the media to acquaint the public with planned societal changes to be implemented by our leaders. If and when these changes are put through, the public will already be familiarized with them and will accept them as natural progressions, thus lessening possible public resistance and commotion."

CONTAGION

The Contagion filmmakers consulted with the CDC in the making of the film. In fact, the CDC has an entire department dedicated to Hollywood. In the past, they have paid employees to watch soap operas and make sure T.V. characters speak about health ‘accurately.’

WHY CDC IS WATCHING DAYTIME AND PRIMETIME DRAMAS:

According to the CDC, “Popular entertainment provides an ideal outlet for sharing health information and affecting behavior.” CDC says that since many Americans learn about health issues from television, “we believe that prime time and daytime television programs, movies, talk shows and more, are great outlets for our health messages.”⁵

A question taxpayers might consider appropriate: should the CDC spend $1.9 million to help Hollywood develop its plotlines, and does this type of assistance justify the use of terrorism funds?

2030: A Ten-Year P*landemic Ahead?

Back in 2016, virtually every national government on the planet met at the 70th annual General Assembly at UN headquarters in New York to adopt a draconian 15-year master plan for the planet called Agenda 2030. Top globalists such as former NATO chief Javier Solana, a socialist, celebrated the plan, which the summit unanimously “approved,” as the next “Great Leap Forward”—yes, the old campaign slogan of the Chinese Communist Party.

“Stopping the Spread” and “Flattening the Curve” are wonderful propaganda slogans to meddle in our lives under the guise of an emergency and global crisis.

“Covid-19, a highly survivable, contagious respiratory ailment, has taken the place of Terrorism as the Dark Force threatening our Way of Life. The same methodical propaganda campaigns—heavy on hypnotic repetition, emotional appeal, guilt, and shame—have kicked into high gear to strip us of our few remaining rights,” writes journalist Helen Buyniski.

This event arguably ushers in a myriad of globalist plans that were devised ages ago. Agenda 2030 addresses biometrics, satellites in space, the installation of 5G, the coverup of left-leaning corruption, the hijacking of 2020 elections, digital certificates, mandatory vaccines for all, and much more. This is the beginning of a ten-year plan, with talks now of a second wave after a summer break.

Ousted (FAUX) whistleblower Rick Bright warns that the U.S faces the darkest winter in modern history.” While Dr. Hans Kluge, Director of the WHO European region, says he’s “very concerned” a second wave will coincide with the flu season.

“Dark Winter” is not only a reference to HBO’s Game of Thrones but a smallpox “simulation” that went awry in 2001.

FINAL SCRIPT – DARK WINTER EXERCISE

EXPLANATORY NOTE TO THE EXERCISE SCRIPT:

In their roles as National Security Council (NSC) members responding to the smallpox crisis, exercise participants were given information about unfolding events in four important ways: briefings, memos, newspaper summaries, and video news clips.

- Each of the three segments began with briefings delivered to the NSC meeting by exercise controllers playing the roles of deputies or special assistants. Subsequent briefings in each segment provided NSC “players” with possible policy options for consideration.
- Throughout the exercise, individual participants were given memos on issues or events within the purview of their position or agency. Participants responded to events in whatever way they felt appropriate.
- The exercise began with a briefing on the geopolitical context in which the scenario occurs. At the start of segments 2 and 3, summaries of relevant news coverage of the epidemic were shown.
- At five different times in the exercise, video news clips were shown which

The abdication of one’s liberty to the State in exchange for supposed security is a regrettable recurrence in the story of human history. The exchange is a sucker’s deal. The State & the elite who run it are rewarded at the expense of an imprisoned population."

Do you stand for medical freedom? Or tyranny delivered via a forced-upon poison-filled syringe? The great divide is before us.

Next, I will be exploring the prequel leading up to coronavirus starting with LockStep 2010. Followed by the timeline from December to the present. Buckle up!
