

Partial Truth, Syphoned Opposition and Facing Ourselves

Partial truth, or more fully stated, truth mixed with lies, omissions and misdirection, is perhaps the most powerful weapon in the arsenal of the deceivers. It not only works the mind into confusion and cognitive dissonance and a host of other traps, but it plays deeply on the subconscious mind, wearing grooves for future lies and distortions.

But this is only part of the story.

These tactics are not only what politics and social engineering thrive on by introducing more and more falsehoods and lower dimensional vibrations into the hive mind, but it's the main ploy of the agents and trolls of controlled opposition, the other side of the coin where many feel "safe" that they're getting "alternative", non-mainstream information.

And they're turning it up full throttle.

The recent news cycle following the escalation of the Syrian and North Korea crises on the heels of the predictable Trumping of the American mind and acceleration of the same old war machine and banking and corporate takeover et al agenda is highlighting this to an incredible degree. That so many so-called awake and aware "alternatives" fell for this buffoonery again illustrates the point.

It's All One Big False Flag

In addition to the mind numbingly crass lamestream media propaganda, analyses and theories blanket the internet at a stunning rate. It's like Baskin Robbins on steroids for viewpoints and theories whenever some new event takes place. I think what emboldens people is not just the understandable outrage at the insanity and potential danger of our world situation, but the accumulated research so many are engaged in and the incremental angst it gins up and desire to break free.

Completely understandable and part of the process but let's keep this train on the right track. Awakening isn't just informational – it's a very deep spiritual change of perception and daily true detached awareness. To truly awaken is to realize we are not of this projected world and to live from there.

The danger here is that the entire matrix is one big false flag. It's a complete deception and diversion from the real issue, creating story after false story in an effort to get us to buy into their reality and thus co-create it. It's worked for millennia and still works today, only to a heightened, interconnected tech-enhanced level. Once humanity realizes that and stops buying into this extremely comprehensive false narrative in every aspect and especially our reactive attachment to it, true reality will manifest.

It begins with the individual gaining a much, much deeper level of awareness.

"The only hope for humanity is the transformation of the individual." – Jiddu Krishnamurti

Breaking Free and Doing the Most Good

The energy spent playing pop goes the weasel cranking the handle round and around until the latest boogey man ploy pops up and is revealed is astounding. Sure, we need to be aware of what's going on, but shouldn't we know by now it's all a charade and just walk away from it at least emotionally and spiritually, no longer feeding it with our attention and energy? It's important to be aware of these things and decipher the coding coming at us, but not in an unconsciously reactive, energy syphoning manner. Therein lies an extremely important distinction.

Isn't it time we drew the obvious conclusion that it's all a lie no matter what form it comes in and step into the true realm of truth and natural reality and let that old one die of starvation? Instead, the overwhelming tendency is to feed and thus succumb repeatedly to this distraction bonanza to cleverly shunt the unwary into matrix batteryville.

Look at the cleverly weaponized Bible and the new age psychedelic and "archaic revival" deception and diversion of a whole generation for example. Talk about weapons of mass deception. And those are only two examples out of thousands, albeit important ones for grasping the depth of the energy sapping illusion.

I'm not saying it isn't important to break down the scam to help see through it and take appropriate action in an extremely conscious and detached way. But overall are we really making sufficient progress on slowing this juggernaut of death and control down? It doesn't appear that way, despite the slow climb of informational awareness. We need to awaken to a new sense of conscious disconnectivity instead of watching and sucking in this virtual internet TV of lies like the false screen we decry that the "sheeple" watch, even if we think we see through it. Otherwise we're not observing any longer, but living in the false right/left, black/white easily controlled dualistic paradigm.

That goes nowhere except provide a place to vent and keep repeating the cycle. That may be Valhalla for keyboard warriors who aren't changing a damn thing as they get off on the rush, but why do they do it? Because they haven't changed personally nor walk the walk and hence feed the very matrix they love to describe and expose so much. A deliberately contained vicious cycle of the first order. History attests to this idiocy.

The Scam and the Spam

"The basic tool for the manipulation of reality is the manipulation of words. If you can control the meaning of words, you can control the people who must use the words." – Phillip K. Dick

It's important for those who are trying to figure things out to realize that almost all information is polluted in some manner and in levels we more than likely are not even be fully aware of. Poison is poison, no matter what sugar it's laced with, nor how well intentioned the source or intrepid the researcher. It's vibrational. With the full on employment and infiltration of AI this is more true than ever. Never mind the blatant trolls, plants, psyops and compromised, ego infected, subtly self exalting "leaders" controlling and directing the so-called opposition, using a limiting vibrational message they're not even consciously aware of.

But it's profoundly simpler than that. The whole scam is to keep us in the game, playing on their terms, and thus keep the arena full of spectators screaming at the players below, never mind at each other. When you spot those symptoms you'll start to catch on.

You don't have to be a player to be in the game. Professional as well as amateur sports, created primarily by Freemasons, are about the most obvious metaphor there could be for the state of humanity, mainstream and much of the alternative, and how it co-creates the matrix by billions of people giving their time and emotional energy to a stinking, meaningless game. If being in the arena isn't enough to watch as closely as you want, you can always watch the mega jumbotron in the arena itself, and even see replays to be sure you didn't miss anything as the tension is deliberately jacked up and then released for your somafication.

But that's not going to satisfy the masses since less than 100,000 people can attend the precious event in person. So, voila, it's pumped through the airwaves around the world in real time. Ah, heaven. Then having had their deliberately engineered Orwellian 2 minutes of hate release before the Orwellian screen, they can go back to work for their Romanesque emperors who brought them these wonderful games.

Rollerball anyone? This is why war isn't such a big deal to people. They get that hate ginned up continually, via sports, dog eat dog economics and a driving inner fear and reactivity eating at them all the time, faithfully fueled by mainstream as well as much of alternative media. Many are fanning predictive programming and conditioning way more than they realize by giving all this so much angst filled air time.

"Energy flows where attention goes."

That dynamic is working in every field of information. Thanks to the internet and even hand held, strap on, and implantable devices we can mainline this crap 24/7. We criticize the younger generation and others for their social media addiction, but what's the difference with what the so-called adults and alternatives are engaged in? The unwary youth and social media addicts are just an obvious outcropping of the same disease most everyone has fallen prey to. That's clear as a bell.

"The great enemy of the truth is very often not the lie – deliberate, contrived, and dishonest, but the myth – persistent, persuasive, and unrealistic. Belief in myths allows the comfort of opinion without the discomfort of thought.” – President John F. Kennedy

Energetically Controlled Opposition and the Vampiric Energy Vortex

Obviously people would not go along with complete full frontal lies continually, although it seems our post Orwellian society has degraded to something pretty close to that. There has to be something that appears to relate to people's everyday experience, no matter how engineered. It may be a relative truth within an entirely fabricated system, but still it's something someone can relate to.

Alternative news and views can do the same. We see more truths than others yet persist on concentrating on the evils and illusions instead of the realities and fundamental strengths of the power of individual human conscious awareness. This isn't a broad brush accusation, it's pointing out an energetic misdirection and resultant fascination that can ultimately be nothing more than another prop to the very thing people think they want to see come down in our world.

Look at how the “hope and change” hypnosis worked once again with Trump, despite many of us warning about it. This is born of attachment, a subconscious inner hope that the very system we all decry can change and all will be magically well. That is nothing less than a Stockholm Syndrome type psychosis wishing for new masters to be kinder to them in a system designed not just to control, but to decimate the human race.

Insane to the max. We claim to understand these things yet keep on in unconscious behavior.

“In order to awaken one first of all one must realize that one is in a state of sleep. And in order to realize that one is indeed in a state of sleep one must recognize and fully understand the nature of the forces which operate to keep one in a state of sleep or hypnosis. And it is absurd to think that this can be done by seeking information from the very source which induces the hypnosis.” – George Gurdjieff

The Alternative Dilemma – What Are You Attached To?

What has been labelled the alternative, research, or truth community is in a bit of a quandary. It's nothing new. Whenever you have an implied or perceived polarity, this kind of lumping together by the mind as well as social engineers happen, forcing free, independent thoughts into trends and distinctive groups that then take on collective attributes. Strangely enough and perhaps elusive to some, almost every time our low level thinking makes this polarized perception it's patently wrong and a complete false choice.

Such is the nature of illusory duality, and they play upon it to keep us involved with it and thus harvest even more energy. Our true nature and reality itself transcends this paradigm. We have got to see and experience this life here with new, heart empowered eyes that bypass the mental illusion and programming. Otherwise the ropes and twines of their parasitic world can control us while sucking our very life energy, even when we think we're loaded with "truth".

The right/left political paradigm is an obvious example. A totally false premise yet a whole fabricated system is built around it making it appear legitimate. Oh how many things in this life are like that! When you realize all this is a holographic projection based on intention and participation you can work backwards and see how pervasive and restrictive that limited mind thinking really is and understand why it falls for all these tricks. That's exactly why the personal work of being truly free ourselves first is of the utmost, primary importance.

As long as there's something within us that can be attached to, it will be attached to!

It's like people who say "they were conned" by Trump. No they weren't. It was obvious what was going on. They were self conned by their own attachment to the system, that it could be changed of all things and some new exterior one of any sort would free humanity in that fully corrupt paradigm. They were conned by their own inner attachments to cherished conscious and unconscious self preserving, fear-based beliefs, hopes and desires, and no doubt their "stuff" and reputations and addictions to their compromised, self serving lifestyles to boot. It's a process of honest identification and release we all have to go through.

Let It All Go and Operate from the "Outside"

Yes. We have to let it all go, starting with and most importantly ourselves. Every truly wise sage of all time has said this for millennia yet we file it away as some distant teaching or philosophy and nice esoteric idea, exactly how the matrix programmed us to do.

The system or matrix is the problem, yes. But it wouldn't be one if we weren't invested in and attached to it. Reforming any of this construct for human freedom is the height of ignorance. That's where this idiotic idea of patriotism and rosy colored glassed deliberate holding on to the idea of "our forefathers" or the "constitution" is so full of bunk for those caught in the American trap. Enough people don't realize yet that those were engineered to again give the illusion of choice and freedom in a completely controlled obviously hierarchical paradigm. The proof is clear. It goes for anywhere on this planet.

If you can see that energetically you're getting it.

If you want to see it clearly, just look at the attachment to it, never mind it being a total fabrication, whatever seeming "good" came out of the American "experiment", for example. It was simply relative to their perception of the oppression from whence they came, like all revolutions to nowhere. Do you honestly see any difference in America or anywhere today except little impotent outcroppings that are soon put down? It's a giant hoax. A massive example of parasitically controlled energetic opposition at work.

We have got to disconnect from feeding these parasitic paradigms.

It's all so remarkable. But this holding on to self-based sacred cows of any sort are all rooted in ego and self preservation. There's virtually no consciousness involved in such low level thinking and behavior no matter how much information anyone has.

If people won't let go of all this bullshit, they're going down with the ship. And believe me, this fake ship has got to sink, the whole thing, and the sooner the better. Stop trying to repair it by giving it all of your attention and energy for goodness sake. If you want to expose what's going on, fine, but stay distinctly separate from it and guard your energy. Don't feed the fear mongering and attention grabbing it feeds on. But most of all get yourself fully sorted out first. Then your true role in all of this will become clear, but not before that.

And if you're fighting this message it's probably for you. It should be fundamental to all of us.

It's time to truly wake up and find the truth and fully empowered awareness at our very centers and detach any and all energetic connections to this fabricated illusion. It's hard work and takes some brutal honesty and hard learned fearlessness.

Have you got what it takes?

Where's your energy honestly going?
