The last thing we need to do at this point is give the government our guns! In the wake of the Stoneman Douglas High School shooting countless media pundits and political talking heads are calling for more “gun control” as a solution to school shootings. Meanwhile a teacher who survived the attack explained that she saw a shooter dressed in full metal gear including a helmet, face mask and body armor, raising more questions about who was involved. In this video Dan Dicks of Press For Truth breaks down the implications of what this teacher saw while also explaining the truth about so called “gun control”
