

Systemic Corruption in Sweden & the Crushing of an Innocent Mother Trying to Protect Her Child from Horrific Abuse

Ole Dammegard, 'Apache Tracker' Conny Andersson, and Jason Goodman share a powerful discussion on the reality of the "justice" system in Sweden and similar corruption in governments throughout the world. Special focus is on the unconscionable persecution of a lion-hearted mother whose "crime" is her determination to protect her 8-year old child who has been sexually molested by the father, a man with top level criminal connections.

Ole and Conny, along with Ole's tour manager Johnny Cash, meet at the courthouse and share a strong and heart-felt discussion of the unfolding events – all the while surrounded by the hideous demonic carvings that represent the energies of this building, a national symbol.

In this episode of Light On Conspiracies Ole Dammegard, while being on tour in Scandinavia, is going to the Swedish courts together with his friend, former police officer Conny Apache Tracker Andersson, and his fantastic tour manager, Johnny Cash, to show their support to a totally innocent woman that is being crushed by the Swedish courts.

Her crime? To try and protect her 8-year old child who has been sexually molested by the father. But instead of investigating the father who has top level criminal connections, the mother is suddenly being accused of multiple different crimes, plus the child is taken away from her and given to the dad. Ole stands up in court and openly states to the judge and the rest of the staff: "It is an absolute disgrace what you are doing to an innocent woman. I know she is already doomed, but before you give her a sentence, please be aware of the Law of Karma – what you do comes back to you." He was then sent out from this 'House of justice". Part of this video is recorded from the event.
