It's hold on and let go time!

That's about the sum of it. The vibrational ride is picking up steam so cinch up your saddles, relax from tension and lean into the wind. We're gonna have to be on our spiritual toes for what's about to hit and we're already getting a taste of.

Things are gonna get wonky!

Real sailors and sea lovers don't freak at the challenge of a good storm, but also have the utmost respect for the awesome power of nature. Like a surfer watching a huge wave build as he catches the top of it and starts his descent, he respects it, admires it, but knows he better do the right thing to keep this a fun experience. He's also psychologically prepared for any eventuality...including what to do to survive if he wipes out!

Well, we're pretty much there. I mean, this has been building for some time. But we're hitting new levels and need to walk circumspectly and stay tuned more than ever if we're to get the most out of this wonderful opportunity while avoiding the pitfalls.

As David Icke, one of the most profound messengers of our time, said almost 6 years ago and continues to reiterate:

"The end of the inter-generational amnesia is in sight and therefore so is the 'world' it has allowed to manifest. It may seem that we are sinking deeper in the mire of control, surveillance and manipulation, but that is being expressed in the 'out there' realm of the still-unawakened – the great majority for sure. One step back from that, however, there is a stirring in the hearts and consciousness of rapidly increasing numbers of people and the time is coming when that will explode in massive global change.”

The fact that we're now 6 years closer is profound!

A World Gone Nuts

We can see how that has already happened in so many respects. The mindless addiction and belief in the false media; wars being waged without regard for popular support or even political consent; scientific insanity from bio-weapons to nuclear madness; deliberate economic implosions for manipulative control; the corporate rape of planet earth; and a clear and openly stated elite agenda for a drastic reduction in the world's population that is already under way.

Insane enough?

Ah, but here's the blowback. All that is not based in conscious reality. All that is a fabricated matrix from a dark vibrational level. When it gets tested by Source, our Universal reality scanner of vibrational Truth, it cannot stand. By definition what is false and fabricated will crumble.

That doesn't mean they won't make their last ditch effort to shove their plan through. And it may even meet some short term apparent success. But it cannot stand, just as the twin towers couldn't withstand whatever it was that vaporized them.

And psychologically? They are mincemeat!

No way can they stand up to these vibrational changes! Their construct is left brain and call it lower vibrational or Satanically inspired and it cannot stand the Truth.

And So It Begins!

How can so many people who've been bought off or coerced one way or another into keeping the big lie covered up for their overlords stand it? Especially when their own families are starting to be affected, and it increasingly appears society is literally coming apart at its seams.

Why? Humanity's left brain thinking patterns are getting jammed and repatterned and their right brain creative side is getting more say so. To think these cosmic events won't have massive effects is like flooding a bowl of ice cubes with warm water and expecting them not to melt!

And none too soon. The mad controllers' artificial psychotronic matrix will also be vying for control of humanity's mind.

The sooner we break free from mind into conscious awareness the better.

All Good to the Awake and Aware

We're in a challenging and what could be considered disorienting time. That's only going to affect you if you haven't realized our entire 'orientation' here is a temporal illusion. Just as materialistic people think they've lost everything when their money and home is gone, those attached to their beliefs and world view are going to take a serious hit if they don't let go.

For those who respond positively to these changes? Many of us are already feeling the degree of accelerating change that's upon us. The world is obviously careening towards a mega cataclysm, but the big news is the massive wake up that's hitting at so many levels. And those who are just now 'getting it' are digging into the internet fast and furious and getting up to speed faster than ever.

And that's a wonderful, wonderful thing!

And for those who aren't yet getting it? Believe me, there will be a flood of latecomers, but at least they will have finally gotten it.

Let's be there for them.

Keep on resonating with the changes, there's a lot of cool stuff to see...and share!

Together we help bring the Change into this reality for all to enjoy.

Much Love,

Zen
