

The Covid Story Is Falling Apart

I have been piecing together this Covid puzzle for over two years, and it's clear to me that there have been, more or less, two kinds of truth-seekers throughout this pseudopandemic.

- There are those who believe the official narrative.
- There are those who do not believe the official narrative.

Anybody in the first group is no longer worth my time and resources. There is no possible way that every government coincidentally locked down hundreds of millions of citizens at the same time (give or take a few weeks), complete with masks, social distancing, curfews, and all the other demoralising tools of propaganda (as pointed out by KGB operative Yuri Bezmenov).

It was coordinated.

It was never about a virus.

It was always about ushering in a technocratic global order.

Ernst Wolff has spoken about it. John Titus has spoken about it. Catherine Austin Fitts has spoken about it. Robert Kennedy has spoken about it. Patrick Wood has spoken about it. Peter Breggin has spoken about it. Iain Davis has spoken about it.

And it's undeniable that all roads lead to Rome.

The World Economic Forum refers to as “The Great Reset”, and has been very vocal about it. The United Nations refers to it as “Sustainable Development”. Some governments refer to it as “Build Back Better”.

There are numerous descriptions, but it's all essentially the same thing.

Many thanks to Prime Minister @BorisJohnson for inviting South Africa to the @G7 Summit as world leaders discuss how to end #COVID19 and #BuildBackBetter. To succeed, we need to mobilise massive resources from the IMF and other institutions to fund a strong recovery in Africa.

It's all technocracy, which is socially engineering society through centralised control of science and technology. China is one such example, and China's population is around one seventh of the entire world. (No, China is not a communist country. After all, China has more dollar-billionaires than America.)

Technocracy is decades old and was envisioned by powerful individuals like David Rockefeller and groups like the Trilateral Commission. (The United Nations, which has buy-in from most countries, is founded on technocratic ideals.)

To piece together more pieces of the puzzle, German lawyer Reiner Fuellmich joined me on my podcast this week.

He and his team (Corona Committee) have been gathering evidence against the global players behind the Covid pseudopandemic.

In this conversation, Reiner discusses

- his background;
- this not being a pandemic at all;
- PCR fraud;
- the importance of the Grand Jury;
- why the legal system is captured; and
- getting off the control grid and building parallel structures.

Reiner's previous podcasts with me have been download over 500,000 times, suggesting that people are interested in what he has to say.
