Justin Trudeau’s infamous “fringe minority” statement:

“The small fringe minority of people who are on their way to Ottawa, who are holding unacceptable views that they’re expressing, do not represent the views of Canadians.”

Words from protestors in Ottawa:

"I'm not a misogynist. I'm not a racist. I have no problem with white people/ I have no problem with other... It is the vocabulary that has been spreading in many countries... This is a concerted effort to use the same vocabulary colloquially so that people get brainwashed, divide themselves and insult their friends, their neighbor. It's organized for that. And people have to see beyond the trap. It's really important. We're a very compliant society. We're also very polite, and so we will agree. But the problem now is, it is the time to fight..."

"If you come here and see what's happening, you will feel it...When you come here, you feel in in your heart. You feel what's happening around here and you can't do anything but smile. Take our gas. Take our diesel. Take our propane. Take everything you want. But you will not take our freedom. You will not take our love."

“Freedom over fear.

“Love over hate.”

Vera Sharav, Holocaust survivor

“I think the best thing that’s happened so far are the truckers in Canada. Who hopefully will be a model for other truckers and other working class people who will rise up and say enough. They are our hope. And it’s a fact that we really, really need to recognize.

“People who are not totally brainwashed can see the big lie. And they’re really prompted to get up and take their chances and do what has to be done to stop it. I hope that others follow and that we will be willing to support them. We really need to put the perpetrators on trial. This is terribly important.

“I want to stress that the vital lessons from the Holocaust...

what facilitated the Holocaust was the silence and indifference of those who watched and did nothing to prevent it.”

“Silence in the face of evil is itself evil:
God will not hold us guiltless.
Not to speak is to speak. Not to act is to act.”
