

Truth Psyops and the Awakening

Truth Psyops and the Awakening

Once we understand that everything is an illusion we're home free. Knowing we're eternal consciousness having this in-body experience is the greatest gift anyone can possibly have.

It's wonderful, it's free and it's forever...and it's for everyone! People just need to wake up to it.

That would seem to be fairly simple, especially once it has happened to you. The fullness of life you expand into, the realization of infinite possibility, is so exhilarating, liberating and profoundly simple that you can't help but wonder why everyone doesn't see it.

This is especially so once the grand conspiracy being foisted on humanity comes into full focus. Things really kick into high gear upon realizing fully what's going on and why we're here at this crucial time.

The notion that this wonderful realization should be apparent to all soon tempers though, when we remember being in that entranced unconscious state ourselves and how we thought we understood pretty well what life was all about. A healthy spiritual check for our attitudes.

How Did It Happen?

Almost all of us were once encased in something that kept us apart from this simple experiential realization. That encasement was both natural and engineered. Natural in the sense that we are spirit born into a physical body, so there is a dimensional challenge right there.

The real problems arise with the cultural and societal constructs we are born into. As helpless infants for an extensive period of time after birth, we are at the complete mercy of whomever is caring for us. Although we are inherently spiritual beings, if this is not corroborated by the spirit and behavior of those around us a type of callous begins to grow to obfuscate that knowledge. Much like waking from a dream and not being able to remember it as a whole different "reality" takes over our senses.

It just happens. If people have dumbed down parents they will most likely be dumbed down as well. At least on the surface. In later years they perhaps can wake up out of that environment as many of us have done.

The War On Consciousness

Children are very often extremely spiritual, often remembering their previous state in detail. Children are born pure. If this inherent spirituality is encouraged and the reality of our true nature reinforced, this would be a very different world.

However it rarely is. Those indigenous peoples who were not raised in engineered societies but only within simple cultural guidelines are very spiritual and natural. There is no "waking up", they just never went to sleep. This is why these rich, conscious native cultures and their shamans have been systematically decimated by the ugly Controllers. They do not want an awakened populace nor for these simple empowering truths to be propagated. Period. And these spiritually free, unharnessed indigenous peoples carried this awareness and connectivity that the Controllers so despise.

So in the overlords' view the children of the world must be made to conform to a system as limiting and spiritually confining as possible. This will include drugging, mind control, restrictive false education in militaristic institutions, treadmill like jobs, mindless diversions and constant propaganda.

In other words, the imposed world system around us.

If you're wondering why the global crack down is so fierce and Orwellian and is accelerating at break neck speed, this is why. The awakening is spreading like wildfire. And they know it. This is why predators like Zbigniew Brzezinski see the awakening as a threat and say things like "It is infinitely easier to kill a million people than it is to control them." (See for yourself here.)

This the type of monster we're up against.

Original Sin – The Seed of the Matrix

The most clever and effective tools to control mankind are religion and belief systems. Instead of fully denying our spirituality, they acknowledge it, then channel and control it. Win the masses over by appealing to this innate drive in each of us to realize our spiritual potential and take them to another nicely decorated cell they think is freedom.

They use this tactic proficiently. Just look at the infrastructure of the Catholic Church for probably the most blatant and elaborate example. The other religions and denominations aren't far behind, nor the socio-political structure. Anything to "protect" us from reality and personal responsibility.

Original sin is one of the most colossal reversals of truth of all time. That and the fear of death. From start to finish these parasitic overlords lie, steal, destroy, manipulate and kill. They're never satisfied. But that's how they do it, reverse and confuse everything until your true orientation is almost impossible to find.

Or so they'd like to think.

That we were born in "sin" and need someone else to pay a fee to get our innocence back couldn't be more binding, never mind exclusive of everyone who doesn't see why they have to pay this toll for just arriving here. It's like having to buy land and water on our own planet. Who the hell thinks they own this place?

This is why we're "tagged" at birth with "certificates" that connect us to this false, imposed legal matrix. It's a contract, and one that needs to be broken. Consciously. An essential part of awakening.

In reality we were born pure until they put their filthy matrix trip on us. Even then they will never conquer our indomitable conscious spirit. But untangling and disengaging is ours to fully pursue.

If You Can't Beat 'em, Lead 'em

Who can you trust in this day and age, even with the internet communication and information revolution? It's obvious the PTBs will try to subvert or nullify the Truth movement, or whatever you want to call it. They must think we're naive dolts like the asleple and just awaiting their fascist harvesting combine. Quite the arrogant disconnect there, when their machinations are so obvious to the rest of us.

But that makes sense, when they live in a lower density mind trap and can't even conceive of our state of consciousness.

Overall there's a lot to be wary of. And that's a healthy attitude. Am I paranoid? Damn straight I am if that's the definition. They are after us. Reminds me of Arthur Conan Doyle's "The Most Dangerous Game" where the ultimate hunt for the psychopathic gamesman is a human being. That's their mindset in a nutshell. Just look at the war and genocide programming and soft kill depopulation agenda.

I Don't Believe in Believing

When it comes down to it, don't believe anyone. Belief is a form of spiritual weakness. Faith (not religious), or knowledge, is a whole different animal, it's actually knowing on a personal level despite the baggage that comes with the term, but belief will get you in trouble. Pursue until you are fully convinced. Sometimes it takes some doing – many times you just know something in your heart to be true. That's not a belief, that's knowing. That is where we derive our power, our happiness, our effectiveness.

Belief will have you living in vain, vain repetitive prayers or rituals, vain longings for what you desire as you await the graces of some deity or all powerful ruler or government; vain hopes for things that could be realized through knowing affirmation. Even the quantum physicists know better. What we intend and focus our attention on becomes manifest.

Our knowing creates our world.

I tell people all the time to not believe me or take my word for it. People need to find out for themselves. That's what's wrong with the world today. Everyone just blindly follows the dictates of others, especially the vast matrix of deceit. What choices they do make are within a carefully contained compartment, giving the illusion of freedom.

I'm just sharing my take and if it resonates or helps people on their way, great. People need to get their own knowledge and perspective. I just want to help turn over a few stones as I'm learning myself and stir people up a bit and maybe inspire and spur them to action to free themselves and others.

If someone thinks I'm full of crap that's fine with me. They go their way and I go mine. But let's at least acknowledge the sanctity of having the freedom to each pursue and learn for ourselves.

I like it when people challenge anything, as long as it's constructive and in a spirit of wanting to learn and find the truth of the matter. When someone shoves their program too hard or it's for self justification or aggrandizement watch out. We all get out of it sometimes but when there's a regular pattern that's off kilter we have a problem. But even then, take the good stuff and leave the rest. You'll usually find yourself looking at other sources of information naturally, and leaving the questionables behind.

Truth Psy-Ops

The Truth community or alternative research community is already infiltrated, you just know it is by simple logic. The PTB's motto is to lead the opposition, that's how to control it. So you know they are amongst the places we all visit for information, trying to mislead and misinform, whatever the source be it spiritual or clearly misdirected or agendized information. Some are obvious like the politicized bullshit or religiously oriented propaganda. Some aren't that easy to spot, much like these new computer viruses that appear and disappear. They're shape shifters of every sort.

With real conscious awareness comes discernment. We need to listen with our ears and minds, yes, but most of all with our hearts.

I can't say I know for sure who's who myself but you can usually sniff them out. For example, there are some who've captured the so-called "patriots'" attention with mountains of exposes and angry rhetoric and most don't have a clue where they're being led and what a diversion it potentially is. Even some of the alternative health sites have some very questionable viewpoints and allegiances. The information in these compromised outlets is mostly bang on, otherwise it wouldn't work. But there are usually major gaps missing from the full Truth, or it's caged in a structured paradigm that by definition is limiting and will only land us in new versions of the same problems.

Eternal vigilance, as has been said, is the price of freedom.

Maybe it's all karmic and what has to happen with people getting waylaid by partial truths, I don't know. I do know what my path is and it's not based on a destination or outcome. The path is what I'm doing and living every day, and I'm an extremely grateful and happy person. I did have to go through several major traumatic life changes to find the full "Now" way of life as is the case of many. But this awakening is something I feel I'm still just learning about and at childhood stage which I'm very comfortable with. In fact I feel I know less all the time and it feels good. The wonderful mystery of it all just gets more fantastic and I'm learning to just let go and enjoy it instead of trying to figure everything out.

Funny thing is, the more you do that the more wonderful things just come at you.

Like many of you reading this, I couldn't help keeping on until everything became clear. It's very humbling to wake up, everything is just so so wonderfully evident, like "where have I been?". But it's a massive responsibility at the same time. If we don't manifest and utilize this awareness, it will not only fade but many others we could have helped will suffer.

Therein lies the catch.

Belief System Diversions and Hijacking the Awakening

The NWO is a spiritual model most of all. They want control and ultimately the spiritual is supreme and they know that. While they don't have the conscious awareness and wonderful empathy we have, they do operate on a spiritual level, just a different frequency. The New World Order includes a new world religion, and they're warming up to it.

There's a plethora of disinfo tools laced into the alternative information and spirituality arena. Most are obvious. If it disempowers, it's wrong. If it directs your allegiance, it's wrong. If it robs you of your sovereignty, it's wrong. If it's dogmatic and hierarchical, it's wrong. Most lies and lying systems have all of those traits, while other aspects are more subtle. There are other attributes but to me the ones above are the most prominent.

The so called New Age Movement is rife with phony baloney trips, messiahs and deliverance doctrines. Many will be tempted to rest their weary minds and park their energy in any one of these false peace spaces and expect someone to cover for them.

Walk on your own two feet. There's nothing more empowering and liberating.

We have to understand there are plenty of way-stations, indefinite stopovers, sidetracks and diversions on our path to conscious fulfillment. For these psychopathic control freaks to try to hijack this awakening in every way possible is clearly a priority for them towards our continued subjugation.

Be savvy.

The point is to get past them, and not fall for their mind candy and rhetoric, no matter how appealing. We are divine in our entirety and do not need some kind of system or group identity other than Love and Truth. Sure, groups will form as action or fellowship gatherings, but when those symptoms start appearing it is probably time to split, and enlighten those around you. Until we have a clear, consciously aware picture of what's going on and our real situation, shortsighted actions are just rearranging deck chairs on the Titanic.

So, hijack the awakening? Let them try to put out the light of the sun and stop the other stars from shining while they're at it. What fools.

Meanwhile, keep an eye out for these maniacs. They're getting more desperate by the day. These psychotic parasites are on the loose. We need to be smart and on our toes.

And most of all keep the light on. Those in the approaching darkness will be needing it.

Game on. They don't know what or who they're dealing with. Let it fly!
